

Last Rall Laid Yesterday Afternoon-First Throtgh Train This Morning.

The anxiously looked for consummation has at length been reached and Wilmington and Charlotte, sister cities yet almost strangers to each other, are now linked together by one common highway. Wilmington, down by the sea, sends forth its most cordial greetings to Charlotte, up among the bills and Charlotte, nestling among the rich counties of the West, sends back its greetings to Wilmington, the port through which so much of her supplies must find their way to the consumers abroad.

A telegram from Col. Fremont, dated at Charlotte, states that the last rail was laid at 20 minutes past 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and that the road is now open all the way through for trains.

Visit of the Grand Master. Grand Master W. R. Edwards, of Lincolnton, visited the Odd Fellows of Wilmington at Odd Fellows Hall on Wednesday night last.

The Grand Master was introduced G. Andrews, and welcomed to a seat by Noble Grand James M. McClowan, of Orion Lodge No. 67.

Lodge had been transacted, delivered an address of welcome, in which he the fact that Grand Master Edwards ing brother for a great many years. He had held his Lodge together duor any Grand Lodge to aid and encourage him, and alluded to the undaunted moral power of the Odd Fellows of Lincoln.

o'clock in front of the Dawson Bank, the Marshals escorting the Vice President, Col. John Wilder Atkinson, and the Chaplain, Rev. J. C. Hiden, and preceded by a brass band, took up their line of murch for the Fair Grounds, moving down Front to Market street, up Market to Fourth street and along Fourth to the Grounds.

Arriving at the Fair Grounds the procession and visitors drew up in front of the Grand Stand, where the ceremonies of opining the Fair were inaugurated by a short, but earnest and eloquent prayer by Rev. J. C. Hiden, the Chaplain We regret that we era unable to publish this prayer as it was delivered extempore.

The New York Shipping and Commercial Review says of general trade and finance : The general markets are more than usually dull, even for December, which is proverbially a quiet month. Prices, as a rule, are low, profits were rarely ever smaller, and yet the consumption of most kinds of merchandise continues below the usual average. This is explained by the universal economy of the times. A vast number of preductive enterprises throughout the country are at a stand, and a multitude of mechanics, artisans and laborers are consequently out of employment, while the income of others is less than heretofore; the exchange of commodities is comparatively slow, and the flow of money through the arteries of trade is therefore uncommonly sluggish; all of which, with the impairment of confidence, serves to reduce the volume of commercial transactions to the bare exigencies of the time. ROSIN-There has been more disposition on the part of buyers during the last few days to transact purchases of rosin, in view of the fact of better advices from abroad, and the market has been strengthened considerably thereby. Strained rosin was active for the most of the week and buyers would have readily purchased at current market rates, but sellers held higher; $1 80 was bid freely, but $1 85 was asked. This is the proposed of the color of the demand current for export and home market is quiet and unchanged in price. A cargo of 7,000 bushels of black oats were imported on Monday from Prince Edward's Island and were put into store. Quotations from store are 80 to 821 cts P bushel, including sacks. PEAS.—The stock is small and the demand at present light; cow and clay sell at $1 05@$1 10 @ bushel, and $1 15@$1 25 for white P bushel. RICE. The demand is fair with an adequate supply. Clean Carolina is held at 9 cents by the cask; Rough is in small supply, and sells at $1 20 to $1 40, according to quality. Corn MEAL-The demand is light and the stock is equal to the enquiry prevailing. Sales per store at $1 00 to $1 05 bushel, including sacks.

PROVISIONS .- The market for provisions is quiet and easier at the West, but there is no material change in the condition of trade here. Bacon is in good demand, and the stock is not large, however, there is no stringency of supply. North Carolina bacon is in better stock. The lots offered for sale were not sufficiently large to create any excitement and prices are

The following from an exchange gives us the condition of the Western markets. It says: The general fcatures of the market have not changed much during the week, and the fluctuations in prices as the weather changed from favorable to unfavorable have scarcely exceeded 1 cent P 16, with free buyers on each decline, but not much disposition to sell. The receipts of hogs continue liberal at all the leading Western packing points, and when the weather is warm there is a large accumulation of stock in the pens, but it seems to be controlled by parties who are able to have the confidence to hold, and although con-cessions of about 25c per cental are made this is only temporary, and is quickly recovered under more favorable circumstances. If the premises upon which current prices are based are sustained by future developments, the final outcome of the season may be satisfactory, but there is so much that is artificial and purely speculative in the trade this season that its influence is to produce a want of confidence in the course which themarkethas taken. The very large short interest which has been created in Chicago may sustain prices until the end of the packing season, and there is not a little buying of the product here for future delivery by parties from the country, which has the same stimulating effect, but there is no disguising the fact that the consumptive demand, domestic and foreign, is much short of last year, and whether the packer who puts market was inactive and dull in the meat in his cellar will be able to obtain a new dollar for an old one is a isfactory a condition as they are in light and little was wanted by buyers. | question which is more than ordinarily involved in doubt.
